2.1. Infrastructure

€ 59'5925.46

Infrastructure includes server colocation, server hardware, internet connection, installation costs and all further operation costs.

2.2. Campaigns

€ 143'305.15

Costs in this domain are produced in particular by reviewing and editing incoming material, video authoring, analyzing and arranging a large number of documents by subject and priority, anonymisation and much more. This also includes the involvement of external experts like journalists..

The following campaigns were carried out in 2010:

- April 2010: Video production “Collateral Murder”
- July 2010: “War Diary: Afghanistan War Logs”
- October 2010: “War Diary: Iraq War Logs”
- November 2010: “CableGate: US Embassy Diplomatic Cables”

2.3. Travel expenses

€ 62'053.31

Travel costs result from the participation of conferences, meetings, lectures, meetings with press representatives and those responsible for the infrastructure. Wikileaks-activists were paid travel costs in exchange for receipts, generally economy class tickets for flights and 2nd class tickets for public transport as well as hotel costs at average price category. Often the latter was not necessary, because activists often are lodged in private.

2.4. Legal advice

€ 32'944.95

Legal advice costs were reimbursed for project campaigns, though not for individual-related legal advice or legal representation in court proceedings. Costs arise by campaign consulting (before and after) and in case of threatening legal conflicts.

2.5. Remunerations

€ 104'477.15

Only a few heads of project and activists were regularly remunerated based on invoices. The amount of remunerations assigned is based on the remuneration scheme of Greenpeace.
